Project: HR Consultancy

Dates: 2008

Client requirement

Corridan Financials provides accountancy and training services, including workshops in finance and IT. With a wide and growing range of clients, company founder, Margaret Corridan, who is a Qualified Chartered Management Accountant, identified the need to employ a full-time member of staff to help her manage the increasing demand. Aware of the complex legal and administrative framework that needs to be followed when employing staff, Corridan Financials turned to Business Adrenalin to provide expert support.

Overview

The companies met to determine the precise requirements of the project and discuss Corridan Financials' growth plans. This led to Business Adrenalin drafting appropriate documentation, including a contract and terms and conditions of employment as well as advising Corridan Financials of the other obligations and responsibilities of becoming an employer.

The result

Corridan Financials has now successfully taken on its first full time member of staff and continues to go from strength to strength. The company has a set of documentation, which will be utilised as and when it takes on further employees, and is fully aware of its legal responsibilities.

Client view

"I received a very good service and now have all of the documents I need. What I got was very flexible and will stand me in good stead for the future."

"Coming from a corporate background, I have seen where employing staff can go wrong. I wanted to make sure I got it right as it's critically important that taking on staff is done properly. I would certainly recommend Business Adrenalin, who ensured that the whole process was correct."
